SLAP AT HARMON IN OHIO

Deplores Fact that Columbus Mob Defied Authorities.

Wars Up in Attack on Dishonest Corporations and Dishonest Men. Niece Things Said and "Our Next President" Often Heard—Kind Words for Parents of Every Baby He Sees at Various Stopping Places.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Roosevelt topped off a whirlwind day with a short speech at the Newspaper Club of Chicago. The colonel enjoyed meeting the men who write about him, and he said so. The stay at the club was short.

At 10 o'clock the Roosevelt special pulled out of the Northwestern station. To-morrow stops will be made at a number of small cities in Iowa. On Saturday the colonel is due at Cheyenne for the real big doings.

Elkhart, Ind., Aug. 25.—Moving swiftly into the heart of the West, Col. Roosevelt grew bold to-day. The crowds that thronged the railroad stations all along the line in the States of New York, Ohio, and Indiana surprised even the colonel himself by their genuine enthusiasm and interest in what he had to say. He listened to advice and they heard the colonel warm up into his old-time form and bang away against dishonest corporations and dishonest men.

Col. Roosevelt threatened to break the best business in the land if it is not honest. He said he will make the corporations come to time, although he promised to eschew politics until he should begin his set speeches on leaving Cheyenne, Wyo.

Col. Roosevelt could not resist the temptation to deliver a back-handed swat at Gov. Harmon, of Ohio. The colonel aroused a great crowd in the union station at Cleveland by his reference to the car strikes at Columbus a few weeks ago, when the mob defied the police and cut loose from the law. He intimated that Harmon didn't do his duty. He deplored the incident as an affront to decency, and declared that the public official who fails to quell the mob is as much of a criminal as the corrupt member of a corporation, which is the limit.

Wants Justice to All.

Col. Roosevelt pounded the air with his fist, and clinched his jaws as he told folks in the various States what he will do whenever he has power. He said he will keep order and insist upon justice from the rich man. A good many persons got the impression that T. R. spoke as though he were going to have power in the future, for he used that tense most all the time. His utterances, however, so far as 1912 is concerned, have not more than lightly suggested that he is moving right ahead on his own hook. The colonel has not gone far enough on his trip yet to allow an accurate estimation of his popularity in the West.

SHERMAN IS SILENT.

Prepares for Western Trip, but Has Nothing to Say.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Vice President Sherman will leave this city at 2 o'clock Friday morning for the West on his campaign tour. He goes first to Chicago, and after delivering several speeches in Illinois will go to Oklahoma. His brother-in-law, Sherrill Babcock, will accompany him.

The statement from Watertown to-day to the effect that Vice President Sherman had indicated to friends in that city this week that on the completion of his term as Vice President he would retire permanently from public office and active politics is discredited here by Mr. Sherman's close friends.

The Vice President himself refused to discuss the matter, maintaining the close silence which has characterized him during the past few days.

HERO IS HONORED.

Navy Yard Employee Gets Medal from Congress.

As a reward for bravery in rescuing Philip F. Osthaus from drowning, August 4, 1907, at Colonial Beach, Va., Thomas L. Evans, of 219 Linworth place southwest, an employee of the navy yard, has been given a solid silver medal by Congress.

Evans was standing on the pier at the resort when he heard Osthaus calling for help. The drowning man sank twice before Evans finally succeeded in bringing him to shore.

The medal is inscribed as follows: "To Thomas L. Evans, in testimony for bravely rescuing a young man; act of Congress, June 20, 1874. In testimony of heroic deeds in saving life from the peril of the sea."

FROST IN NEBRASKA.

All Vegetation Is Killed in the Black Hills District.

Omaha, Aug. 25.—Light frosts prevailed over Western and Northern Nebraska last night, and indications are for continued frosty weather to-night. In the Black Hills an inch of snow fell last night, breaking the record for early snow. All vegetation was killed in the hills, and the temperature dropped to 25 degrees.

ALL F STREET SPOTS HER IN A SILK HOBBLE SKIRT

Miss Lydia Garrett, a Striking Brunette, Enjoys "Trip," While Hundreds Gaze at Latest "Fall" Fashion.

Miss Lydia Garrett, a swimming teacher of this city, "hobble-skirted" in F street yesterday afternoon and enjoyed the "trip" immensely, they say. The "hobble skirt" made its appearance right at the height of the afternoon promenade, and was spotted immediately. The word that the latest thing in "fall" fashions was out on the street put the promenaders on the watch.

Here's a description of the skirt as given by the fashion editor: "The gown is of tan, figured silk, 'hobble' just above the ankles with a band of plain brown satin. Where the confining band is placed the skirt measures but one and one-quarter yards around."

Miss Garrett is a strikingly handsome brunette. She is rather tall, and seemed to have no difficulty in traveling under the restraint of a hobble. Only once or twice was the short, mincing "hobble" step forgotten, but nothing more serious than a slight pause resulted.

All F street got up and took notice, and various comments were heard as to the practicality of the latest fashion. One cynic remarked that the many accidents due to the "hobble" would cause a ban to be placed on it, just like they did for football. At least, he added, a commission will have to be appointed to arrange revision of the make-up of the dress.

"It's all in the practice," added a more optimistic one. "All you've got to do is get on to how to jump off a car, and such things can be learned only by constant practice. I'd suggest that with each skirt made the dressmaker give away a book of rules on how to become proficient in the wearing of the apparel."

Whatever be the verdict of these self-appointed judges, Washington has a hobble skirt and awaits the orders of Dame Fashion. Next!

Austin, Tex., Aug. 25.—A dispatch from Sutherland Springs, Tex., says: "Reports say a syndicate of wealthy New York women, headed by Mrs. Russell Sage and Miss Helen Gould, has acquired a tract of 100 acres near here, which it will use as the location for a rest cure resort. The plans call for the expenditure of more than $200,000 in the erection of a modern hotel and beautifying the grounds."

JOY RIDER KILLED.

Four Other Occupants of Machine Are Injured.

Scranton, Aug. 25.—Five persons were injured, one of them fatally, while returning from a joy ride through Nay Aug Park. The automobile containing the party became unmanageable, and plunged down a 20-foot embankment, landing on a pile of rocks. The party had been to Castor's road house for a chicken dinner.

J. D. Simpson, aged thirty-eight years, the man who gave the dinner, was caught under the automobile, and his skull crushed. He died late to-night at the State Hospital. Roy A. Huntsinger, the chauffeur, escaped with a few bruises.

The other three in the automobile were girls. Goldie Darrow was cut and bruised about the head, face, and body, and is in a critical condition. Alice Smith, twenty-three years old, was cut and bruised about the body. Sadie Hall, twenty-one, was badly cut about the leg, and bruised about the body.

The machine swerved to one side, and went down the bank when it collided with a telegraph pole.

LUMBER YARD BURNS.

Loss Is $200,000 in Spectacular Baltimore Fire.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 25.—The huge double-decker lumber sheds of Eisenhauer, MacLea & Co., at Canton and Central avenues, and containing 2,000,000 feet of costly hardwoods, were destroyed by fire to-night, causing a loss of $150,000. The insurance is $123,800. The Eden street supply station of the Standard Oil Company, the Bennett Pottery Company, the Bagby Furniture Company, and numerous dwellings caught fire, and the combined loss is estimated at $200,000, covered by insurance.

The structures burned were: Eisenhauer, MacLea & Co., block southeast corner of Central and Eastern avenues; loss, $150,000. Bennett Pottery Company, Eden street; loss, $100,000. Bagby Furniture Company, Central and Canton avenues; loss, $1,000. Twenty-two firemen and three citizens were slightly hurt while fighting the fire.

WOODRUFF ISSUES SECOND DEFENSE

"Old Guard" Leaders Trying to Evade the Question.

TAFT LETTER IGNORED

Explains How Sherman Was Chosen by Committee.

Statement Given Out Last Night Simply a Repetition of that Handed Out by Mr. Barnes on Tuesday.

Willing to Let Convention Decide as to Direct Primaries—Fears Radicalism and Its Effect on Business.

New York, Aug. 25.—Chairman Woodruff, of the Republican State committee, came back to-day from his camp in the Adirondacks, and after pow-wowing with Mr. Barnes and other old guard Republicans he was able to reach, he gave out a statement to-night explaining his side of the happening at the meeting of the State committee when Col. Roosevelt was turned down for temporary chairman of the State convention and Vice President Sherman was selected in his stead.

The statement, which was carefully edited and many times revised before it was given to the newspaper men, for the most part was a repetition of that made by Mr. Barnes at the Republican State headquarters on Tuesday night.

Mr. Woodruff, in his statement, follows the example set in the statement made by Mr. Barnes, and does not attempt to answer the charge by President Taft that he had no idea that Mr. Sherman was to be named, and that, on the contrary, when it was suggested to him that there might be some opposition to the proposal to name Col. Roosevelt as the chairman of the committee, the President insisted that before anything was done both Col. Roosevelt and Chairman Griscom, of the Republican county committee, should be consulted.

Thought Choice Was Approved. Mr. Woodruff professes to have no knowledge of whisperings which Mr. Ward and Mr. Barnes set going among the members of the committee just before the meeting was called to order that Mr. Sherman was to be named, and that Mr. Taft had approved of the selection of Mr. Sherman.

As a matter of fact Mr. Woodruff, just after the meeting, said to a group of reporters that Mr. Sherman would not have been chosen had the President not stated over the long-distance phone that the picking out of Mr. Sherman for the temporary chairmanship of the State convention was thoroughly agreeable to him. President Taft, in his letter to Mr. Griscom, has stated that the first intimation he had that Mr. Sherman was a candidate for the place was the reports he read in the newspapers on the morning after the meeting.

Another point on which there is a disagreement of facts between the assertions made in the Woodruff statement and the statement made by Mr. Griscom after the meeting is that in which Mr. Woodruff asserts that, much to his surprise, and entirely without warning, Mr. Griscom, when the Sherman resolution was brought up, moved to substitute the name of Roosevelt for Sherman.

Mr. Woodruff states that Mr. Griscom was around the Republican Club for fully an hour before the meeting of the committee was held, and that he had full knowledge that the name of Mr. Sherman was to be proposed.

FRAUD IS CHARGED.

Norfolk Paper Demands New Primary in Second District.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 25.—The Second district Congressional fight between Representative Harry L. Maynard and former Representative W. A. Young took a sensational turn to-day. Not only does the official canvass of returns from half of the district put Young's unofficial majority from 105 to 45 to-night, but Representative Maynard filed notice of contest, charging fraud and irregularities in five Norfolk County precincts.

The Virginia-Pilot, the leading newspaper of the Second district, to-morrow will editorially demand a new primary election between Young and Maynard. It says grave suspicion hovers over the result of the election. To-night the Warren Second district is in throes of excitement. Charges of election fraud are rampant.

One precinct in Norfolk City voted nearly 200 more votes than it has ever done since the negro disfranchisement in Virginia. One thousand more votes were polled in Norfolk City than in the last Congressional primary. Young carried Norfolk by 1,905.

Sibley Trial Is Delayed.

Franklin, Pa., Aug. 25.—The refusal to-night of Judge Thompson, clerk of courts of Venango County, to take to Warren the $2,000 election expense account of Joseph C. Sibley is expected to result in the postponement to-morrow of the trial of Sibley and his four co-defendants, charged with bribing and corrupting voters by the use of money.

NEW "GREAT WHITE WAY" OPENED IN THE CAPITAL

Handsome Electroliers Convert Sixteenth Street Into Glare as Bright as Day, While Hundreds Parade Along Boulevard.

Washington has a new "great white way."

When a switch was turned at the municipal power plant early last evening, Sixteenth street northwest was converted into a brilliantly lighted thoroughfare that rivaled New York's famous Broadway.

Two hundred and fifty handsome electroliers recently installed were given their first tryout, and were responsible for the brilliant glare that made the handsome boulevard as bright as day. The new lights are of handsome design. A circular globe surmounts a wrought iron post, and above the post is a bronze eagle. Six lights are placed in each block, from H street north to Park road.

Hundreds of autoists and promenaders were out in a gay parade last night on the beautiful boulevard. In the glare of the new lights the scene was one of wonderful beauty.

Highly enthusiastic comments on the new lighting system were heard on every hand, and it is certain that the thoroughfare will become the mecca for promenaders out for an airing during the summer.

To those who called up the electrician at the District Building last night, the only word to mar the grand opening of the "great white way" was sounded. Residents of other sections of the city who witnessed the illumination, said to one another: "We ought to have those lights on our streets, eh, Heck?"

Immediately the electrician's office was whirling with 'phone calls from anxious citizens. "The electrician was sorry, he said, but Sixteenth street is the only thoroughfare to be lighted with the electroliers for the present. Of course, if appropriations are made next year—"

But, any way, the anxious ones agree, Sixteenth street is a public highway, and "we can go up there any night to get in on the display."

BODY OF TAGGART COMING TO CAPITAL

Recovered Near Drowning Spot at Colonial Beach.

GRIEF-STRIKEN PARTY BACK

Small Group of Friends Meet Them on Return from Resort Where Popular Young Man Met Heroic Death—His Brother Gives First Accurate Details of Bathing Tragedy.

After dragging the river for twenty-four hours, the body of Courtney Taggart, who was drowned Wednesday at Colonial Beach, Va., while rescuing two young women of his bathing party, was recovered at 11:20 o'clock yesterday morning a short distance from the spot where he sank. The body will arrive in Washington at 6 o'clock this morning on the steamer Capital City. It was stated at Mr. Taggart's home, 903 French street northwest, last night that no funeral arrangements have been made.

A small group of friends and members of the Belmont Club, of which young Mr. Taggart was a prominent member, met the sorrowful party, which arrived on the Queen Anne last night at 11 o'clock. Stopping only to speak hurriedly to their friends, the party, consisting of G. B. Taggart, brother of the young man; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kelley, Miss Edna Thomas, fiancée of Mr. Taggart, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, went straight to their homes.

Yesterday morning seven men went out in two row boats, joined by a sixty-foot rope, to which were attached thirty large hooks. After dragging for ten minutes, the body was recovered about twenty feet from the scene of the accident. There were no signs of mutilation on the body except for a few scratches about the eyes.

Men Who Found Body.

The men who found the body were C. T. Jackson and G. B. Wilkerson, of Colonial Beach; H. M. King, Falls Church, Va.; G. T. Jones, Hyattsville, Md.; A. W. May, C. H. May, and W. J. MacKinnon, of Washington.

Giles B. Taggart, special attorney in the Bureau of Corporations of the Department of Commerce and Labor, reached Colonial Beach yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Queen Anne to take charge of the body. An inquest was held and a verdict of accidental death issued by the coroner, after which the body was embalmed at Fitzhugh's undertaking establishment.

"Courtney met his death while rescuing his two girls, who got out beyond their depth," said Mr. G. B. Taggart, on his return last night. "After an almost superhuman effort, he succeeded in helping Miss Lena Thomas into the shallow water, and then tried to save Miss Cora Thomas, her sister, while under water himself."

"Several persons passed in a sailboat, and laughed at Miss Cora's cries for help, not realizing the situation. He kept her body afloat, and as he went down for the second time he had the presence of mind to push her toward the shore, which placed her out of danger. He was too exhausted to struggle any longer, and sank."

Small Boys Give Aid.

"Two small boys, named Jerry Spaulding and Jerry Berve, who were rowing near by, helped Miss Cora and Mr. Kelley, who had swam after the girls' canoe, into their row boat and took them to shore."

Mr. Taggart expressed indignation at the way things are managed at Colonial Beach, especially at that point where the shore is very treacherous. There are two channels, he said, neither of them being marked to warn bathers. When his brother met his death the party was out in shallow water, and suddenly went over their heads without an instant's warning. Upon reaching shallow water again, they struck the second channel and again went over their heads.

Along all the swimming portion of the beach, Mr. Taggart said, there is not a danger sign or buoy to warn swimmers of the peril, and any one not familiar with the water takes his life into his own hands. If the channels had been properly marked, he declared, the accident would not have occurred.

William S. Taggart, the young man's father, who is dangerously ill at his home with inflammatory rheumatism, has stood the shock well, and was reported resting comfortably last night. His mother, who is prostrated with the sad news, is also keeping her strength.

GAUGER AT STILL TO BE ARRESTED

Evidence in Official Report Cause of a Warrant.

POLICE SAID TO KNOW MAN

Investigation of Illicit Distilling of Whisky Near Capital May Result in Dismissal of Storekeeper and Prison Sentences—Government De-frauded of $10,000, It Is Alleged.

On charges of gross dereliction of duty and implication in the plot through which the United States government, by the manufacture at the distillery of the Capital Supply Company, of illicit whisky, has been defrauded out of a sum said to reach $10,000, a member of the Baltimore office of the Internal Revenue Department, detailed as storekeeper at the distillery while it was in operation, will be arrested to-day by a United States marshal, according to information given to The Washington Herald last night.

Evidence in the report filed with Acting Chief Commissioner James C. Wheeler by the investigating detectives will compel the warrants to be issued, according to the statement of a prominent official of the Revenue Service.

The identity of this man is concealed by the department officials. To the police of the Fifth precinct, when in November of last year they conducted an investigation of the distillery through the orders of Capt. Williams, the storekeeper gave the name of Studebaker. Police officials last night refused to affirm or deny that he is the man under suspicion.

Prison Term Probable.

None of the revenue officials would discuss the probable outcome of the trial. It is, however, certain that if the evidence secured is substantiated by the results of the investigation to be started next week of the books and papers of the Capital Supply Company, a law conviction obtained will result in dismissal from the service and a long prison term.

"There can be no question," said a revenue official last night, "but that something was radically wrong with the conduct of affairs at the distillery. As storekeeper and gauger, it is true that one man cannot watch each separate movement of the employees at their work, but how frauds such as have been uncovered in this instance could continue for more than ten months without his knowledge is beyond my comprehension."

Compromise Is Denied.

Declaring emphatically that the Internal Revenue office has not considered a proposed compromise in its cases of illicit whisky manufacture against the Capital Supply Company, Acting Chief Commissioner James C. Wheeler last night discredited the reports circulated yesterday afternoon that the revenue officials were to accede to an offer from Hall & Cole, proprietors of the raided distillery, to accept a small fine and allow the continuance of the business under bond.

"Such a proposition," said Capt. Wheeler, "is said to have been made to revenue officials by the members of the firm arrested. It has not been formally presented to me, but if it should be, I may say that it would receive no consideration." Capt. Wheeler has entire charge of the department, Chief Royal A. Cabell being out of the city until September 13.

The revenue officials are sure that they have convicting evidence against the men arrested, and that the cases will be pushed.

Officials of the service last night detailed the methods used by the operators of the distillery to evade the law.

According to the laws governing the manufacture of whisky, each vat and pipe through which the liquor passes must be sealed by locks, attached by revenue officials, which can be opened only in their presence. In the distillery at the foot of Fifteenth street there is said to be a hollow iron pipe, ostensibly used as a support to an upper floor.

Concealed in Cellar.

By the attachment of a concealed pipe leading from the main flow pipe of the still to the aging cistern below, any quantity of the liquor could be diverted through the iron pipe and run into barrels concealed in a hidden cellar.

No estimate of the amount of whisky so disposed of can be made until computations of the amount of grain delivered to the plant are completed. It is alleged that false statements as to the capacity of the plant were made at the time the license was issued.

The formal report of the investigations of the revenue officers will not be filed with Chief Wheeler until this afternoon. This delay is occasioned by the fact that the papers must first pass through the hands of Collector Goldsborough, of Baltimore, head of the revenue district in which Washington is situated.

BEST BALL TEAMS IN WORLD TO PLAY

American League Stars vs. National Rivals.

THREE LOCALS NAMED

Johnson, Street, and Milan Are on the List.

Wealthy Cincinnati Business Men Behind Scheme for Post-season Series of Twelve Games, to Be Played in Principal Cities, Starting October 15—Ban Johnson and Garry Herrmann Approve of Plan.

Cincinnati, Aug. 25.—Two wealthy Cincinnati business men, Jefferson Livingston, president of the T. A. Snyder Cattle Company, and E. V. Wilborn, one of the owners of the Monroe Hotel, and vice president of the Provident Trust Company, both seasoned fans, are to invest $50,000 to $75,000 as the principal backers of a scheme to have a post-season series of games played between picked teams of the National and American leagues, beginning about October 15. The schedule, which has not yet been completed, embraces twelve contests to be played in leading cities, beginning in Cincinnati. Should bad weather interfere, the games will be played in the principal cities of the South.

The enterprise, it is announced, has the moral support of Chairman Herrmann, of the national commission, and President Johnson, of the American League, also a member of the national commission.

Most of the players have already been engaged, it is claimed, and the line-ups are given out as follows:

National League. Catchers—Resnahan, of St. Louis; Kling, of Chicago. Pitchers—Mathewson, of New York; O'Neill and Brown, of Chicago; and Becker, of Brooklyn. First base—Kenesly, of St. Louis. Second base—Evers, of Chicago. Shortstop—Vogler, of Pittsburgh. Third base—Devlin, of New York. Left field—Hague, of Philadelphia. Center field—Crawford, of Detroit. Right field—Mitchell, of Cincinnati. Utility infielder—Hofman, of Chicago. Utility outfielder—Crawford, of Detroit.

American League. Catchers—Street, of Washington; Carrigan, of Boston, and Spengler, of Detroit. Pitchers—Wahba, of Chicago; Mullin, of Detroit; Bender, of Philadelphia, and Johnson, of Washington. First base—Chase, of New York. Second base—Lajoie, of Cleveland. Shortstop—Buck, of Detroit. Third base—Lord, of Chicago. Left field—Smith, of Washington. Center field—Speaker, of Boston. Right field—Cobb, of Detroit. Utility infielder—Collins, of Philadelphia. Utility outfielder—Crawford, of Detroit.

Muggsy McGraw and Hughey Jennings are the managers engaged for the respective teams.

Messrs. Livingston and Wilborn gave out a statement to-night in which they said that their project was primarily for the establishment of an ideal nine, and thus settling a question long in dispute. Thirty-two of the thirty-four players of both major leagues deemed an authority by common consent of fans as the greatest living ball players have already signed contracts, and the other two are on the verge of doing so.

The players and some prominent owners and officials in the baseball world will travel from city to city during the series of games in one of the finest special trains ever put on the road. As sufficient proof of the approval by the national commission of the project, the statement said, was the fact that President Herrmann had already leased his ball park to the promoters of the enterprise. They had heard of no objection from any of the club owners in either league to the participation by their players in these games.

MEXICO FOR MADRID.

Must Not Tarry Long in Central American Republics.

Like Zelaya, Dr. Jose Madrid, the deposed President of the de facto government in Nicaragua, will not be allowed to tarry long in any of the Central American republics. "The arm of Secretary of State Knox is long, and its grip is like the iron fist," say representatives of Central American countries on duty in Washington.

The State Department received a dispatch yesterday from Fenton McCreary, Minister to Honduras, stating that Dr. Madrid and eighty-some officers and followers had reached Taguigalpa, Honduras, in their flight from Nicaragua. He also stated that the officers and followers would go on to Costa Rica, but that Madrid, who was indisposed just then, would go on to Mexico by steamer.

It was stated that when Madrid arrived at Taguigalpa Wednesday he was informed in a note from the minister of foreign affairs of Costa Rica that his sojourn in that country would have to be brief, for the reason that if he remained he would embarrass that country with Mr. Knox. He has decided that Mexico is the land of future for him.

It was reported at the State Department yesterday that the provisional government in Nicaragua is rapidly restoring order.
